TERMS: Cash with order. MINIMUM ORDER: $3.00.

LOUISIANA NATIVE IRISES

These beautiful plants may be grown in practically every section of the United States in upland gardens, provided they are well fertilized, heavily mulched and watered frequently during periods of prolonged drought. The rhizomes may be moved successfully at any time during the late summer and fall, but the best period is during the months of August and September. Orders are accepted throughout the year for shipment during the late summer and early fall.

The 1955 season was very unfavorable for Louisiana irises in the Baton Rouge area, consequently, the supply of named varieties is scarce and most of the rhizomes are small.

SELECTED SEEDLINGS

The greatest value which I offer in the fall of 1955 is in my selected, numbered seedlings. As a group, these seedlings have large flowers produced on vigorous, rust-resistant plants. Culture in 1955 was such that the rhizomes are larger than those of named varieties offered in this catalog. Each $0.50

54-5; 54-7; 54-8; 54-10; 54-12; 54-14; 54-15; 54-28; 54-29; 54-30; 54-33; 54-37 and 54-40. Various shades of red violet to deep blue violet. Large flowers on vigorous, rust-resistant plants. (I. giganticaerulea + Haile Selassie).

SEED OF LOUISIANA IRISES

In order to encourage the cultivation of our native irises as ornamental plants I distribute seed to all who request them as long as the supply lasts. These seed are open pollinated, mass collected from all the varieties grown in my garden. Send 6¢ in stamps to cover cost of packaging and postage. Requests will not be acknowledged, but seed will be sent out the following July. As this goes to print on July 19, 1955, I have a good quantity of seed on hand for immediate distribution.

YOU ARE INVITED AND URGED TO JOIN THE AMERICAN IRIS SOCIETY. The quarterly Bulletin is chuck full of information on all types of irises. The registration service avoids confusion in regard to names. Send annual dues of $4.00 to The American Iris Society, 3902 Hillsboro Road, Nashville, Tenn.

DAYLILIES

Interest in daylilies, or Hemerocallis has grown at an amazing pace in the past ten to fifteen years. The botanical name of this plant means "beauty for a day," and while the individual flowers are short lived, one may have a long succession of blooms from early spring to late summer by a judicious selection of varieties. The plants will grow under almost every soil and climatic condition and insect pests and diseases are of negligible importance. For beauty of garden and ease of culture—grow daylilies. Join the parade.

Plants may be divided and reset at any season of the year when the ground is not frozen, but the most desirable time in the South is late summer and early fall, after blooming is over.

Daylilies will tolerate a great deal of neglect and abuse, but for larger blooms, a profusion of blooms and a longer blooming period, the gardener will be amply rewarded by giving his plants a fertile soil, good culture and water during periods of summer drought.

HONORS CITED:

Stout Medal, the highest award of the American Hemerocallis Society,
Award of Merit (A.M.), the American Hemerocallis Society,
Honorable Mention (H.M.), the American Hemerocallis Society,

DAYLILY BARGAIN COUNTER—Mixed Hybrids. This is an excellent value if you desire a large number of plants for mass planting without regard to variety name. Each year the hybridizer produces hundreds of good plants which have yard value, but which are not sufficiently different from established clones to justify registration. The best of these are increased and offered for sale by color. Many are superior to some of the named varieties listed in this catalog. Your choice of reds, yellows, golds, salmon pinks and bicolors in any combination which you specify. Per dozen.... $3.00

DAYLILY SEED. Hand pollinated hybrids from the best varieties listed in this catalog. Place orders throughout the year for delivery in the month of July. If planted immediately and kept moist for two weeks the seed will germinate promptly and the new plants will bloom in two years. This is an interesting and inexpensive means of securing many new and beautiful varieties. Start now and have a few new seedlings coming into bloom each year. No shipment of seed will be made after September 1 of the current year. Late orders will be carried over into the following year. Pkt. of approximately 150 seed..... $1.00

AMERICAN HEMEROCALLIS SOCIETY. This organization is contributing to the interest in daylilies and to the knowledge of their breeding and culture. Its program includes a loan library, registration service for new varieties, slide rental service, a Round Robin Department, an annual Yearbook of information, evaluation of new varieties and an annual convention. The annual dues are $3.50. You are invited to send your application to Daisy L. Ferrick, Secretary, 416 Arter Avenue, Topeka, Kans.

AMARYLLIS JOHNSONI. A long trumpet, dark red with a white keel. Known as St. Joseph's Lily in South Louisiana. Per bulb $0.75

CRINUMS

These are large and showy lily-like plants for the Lower South. They added charm and beauty to "Grandmother's garden." Flower lovers are again learning to appreciate these beautiful plants of easy culture. They may be moved at any time, but fall planting is recommended. If given a fertile soil and watered during the summer they will reward the gardener with their glossy foliage and a profusion of fragrant blooms. The following varieties are offered: Flowering size bulbs..... $1.50

- C. Sanderianum. Early white keeled with red.
- C. giganteum Hybrid. Fragrant, white, tulip-shaped flowers.
- C. seabrum. White with distinct red keel. Flower penduncle 1 to 2 feet high.
- C. bulbispernum alba. White flowers. Handsome blue-green foliage. Hardy in the Southern States.
- C. erubescens (frequently sold as C. fimbriatum). White with red keel. Commonly referred to as "Milk and Wine Lily."

Louis Bosanquet. Light pink, early flowering hybrid of the Powellii type.

Ellen Bosanquet. A very popular wine-colored hybrid. Blooms over a long period during late spring and early summer.

AMACRINUM

Amarcrinum Howardii. Lovely, highly perfumed pink. A cross between Brunsvigia rosea and Crinum Moorei. Blooms in late June and July $2.50

LYCORIS SPECIES

Lycoris aurea. The yellow "Golden Hurricane Lily" or "Spider Lily." Hardy in the Lower Gulf Coast States. Should be moved in June or July, while dormant, to bloom during the current season $1.00

WATSONIA

If you live within two hundred miles of the Gulf you can enjoy this valuable cousin of the gladiolus in your garden. The graceful spikes of the rose-colored flowers are excellent for use in flower arrangements. Foliage is evergreen except for a short period in midsummer. Tender in cold climates. Planting may be done at any time during late summer or early fall, but the month of September is recommended. Per dozen corms $1.50
